Inland Empire Utilities Agency's General Manager Resigns

Chino - After twelve years at the Inland Empire Utilities Agency, IEUA's General Manager, Tom Love, submitted his resignation to the Agency's Board of Directors.

"In 2010, the Board asked Tom to remain at IEUA to provide stability and continuity through a management transition," stated IEUA Board President Terry Catlin. "The Board is appreciative of Tom's service to the Agency, in particular addressing the challenges of the last few years. The Board wishes Tom success as he moves on to pursue other opportunities," continued Catlin.

The Agency will conduct business as usual, pursue its current initiatives, and continue to implement its programs and projects now underway. In the meantime, the Board will conduct an immediate recruitment to fill the vacant position with an interim General Manager, followed by a more exhaustive recruitment process to select a new General Manager.
